JFS's Keshet-Y.O.U. (Connecting Young and Old United) program, a pilot program funded by CJP's Metrowest Jewish Community Fund, is for families with children who would like to do a mitzvah (good deed) as part of their Jewish holiday celebrations.

JFS works with many Jewish seniors in our community. Some of these seniors are alone. Their families may live far away. They welcome the opportunity to connect with you and your family when you visit them to share the traditions of the season.

On March 25th, your family will participate in a 45-minute workshop that includes information about Friendly Visiting, a holi-day craft project and snacks. Families will prepare a gift for the elder and receive a special book to share with children titled "My First Friendly Visiting Book". Families will be assigned an elder, and af-ter a short drive to the elder's home, your family will deliver the gift and share the traditions of the holiday. Visits are expected to last about 1/2 an hour.

With its focus on traditional values of tzedakah (acts of chari-table giving) gemilut hasidim (deeds of loving kindness) and tikkun olam (the imperative to make the world a better place), Keshet-Y.O.U. makes it possible for you and your family to do meaningful community service together as a family.
